

purchase of tools and materials needed to help sustain the garden.

Log In

32

Share

44

Tweet

Submit

0

Comment

+

t

Improving Local Schools in Cambodia. Andrea Paulich is the creator of Seed of Small Beginnings in the village of Bech Khlok, Cambodia. Bech Khlok is home to a single, small two-room school with dirt floors and no running water or washrooms that caters to over 140 village children. Andrea's project will provide basic necessities for the overcrowded school including solid floors, proper walls, a third classroom, and a fresh water supply and sanitation areas. Additionally, the project aims to provide valuable educational and teaching materials, as well as connecting the students with vocational training and work opportunities.

We give a grant every day, and you can too, even if all you have is $1 to give! Consider joining our Daily Giving Community and be part our global family of grantees and supporters.

Follow Ari Nessel on Twitter: www.twitter.com/pollinationproj
MORE: Resilience, Local Food, Cambodia, Daily Practice, Philanthropy, Goodness, Acts of Kindness, Generosity, Pay It Forward, Giving Back, Uganda, Microfinance, Women's Rights, African Women, Inspiring Leaders

AROUND THE WEB

by Gravity

Teen Uses Homemade Prom Dress As Message Board For Girls' Rights

Warren Buffet Praises Bill Gates For Putting In 60-Hour Weeks To Help Save World

